

VIVIANI COMES TO HARDING ON LEAGUE

Ex-Premier of France to Bring Message of Europe on Treaty.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington.—Although official statements insist that Rene Viviani, former premier of France, will simply pay a courtesy visit to the United States, the truth is he has full authority to negotiate with the Harding administration concerning a modified league of nations.

Ambassador Jusserand has reported that such proposals or suggestions would not be welcome and would be given serious consideration. From this incident alone may be derived the first news of the way in which President Harding and Secretary Charles Evans Hughes intend to proceed in carrying out the republican campaign pledge which calls for an agreement with Europe for a permanent peace.

The fact that the initiative comes from Europe relieves the United States in a sense of the embarrassment of approaching the European powers with a tale of defects in the present league and suggestions for a substitute. While Mr. Harding has certain ideas concerning an association of nations, he has no way of knowing until he gets into office whether those ideas would prove acceptable to Europe.

To Report to Europe
Few people believe that the Viviani visit will have an immediate effect. On the contrary, the expectation is that a conference of European statesmen will follow the return of Mr. Viviani and that Europe will adopt a course of action after hearing directly or indirectly from the former French premier just what is to be hoped from the United States.

While the government of Great Britain is not sending any envoy to discuss the league of nations with Mr. Viviani, the deepest interest has been exhibited by the British in what may be accomplished by Mr. Viviani. The former premier was one of the brilliant figures at the Geneva meeting of the assembly of the league of nations and is regarded in Europe as one of the ablest of its champions.

Mr. Viviani, who has spent the last few years in the efforts of the League of Nations at Geneva, and Arthur Balfour of Great Britain, that a decision was reached to postpone changes in the league until the new assembly met and came into power at Washington.

French Have Some Idea
Mr. Viviani, like other Frenchmen, cannot understand why Mr. Harding believes the present league is "surrendering." Because the French themselves insist that they would never surrender their sovereignty to anybody either. The discussion between Mr. Viviani and the American government will be largely an explanation of the actual operation of the league and an attempt to discover just what changes the United States would like to have made, to clarify the covenant.

But the Viviani mission, is predicated on the idea that the French treaty and league are the same thing, and are an association. The French decline to believe reports from America that the United States wishes to "scrap" the league or the Versailles treaty. Viviani will advise Europe and an entirely different policy will be followed by Europe in its relations to the United States. It is not, however, believed that the allied powers are vitally interested in preventing any separate peace between the United States and Germany because of its effect on the German situation. They are seeking closer cooperation with America as a means of weakening the moral force of the allies.

Willing to Change Treaty
In a nutshell, Mr. Viviani will point out the disadvantages to America of deserting the allies and making a separate peace with Germany, and will ask that the United States indicate the character of the reservations wanted in the peace treaty. With a few changes, it is known, for instance, that Europe would accept the League of Nations, but any plan that means the dropping of a treaty which has been so long in preparation and which the Germans and allies have all signed will prove unacceptable to the French. To support the treaty means renewed controversies, and the allies having trouble enough enforcing the Versailles treaty. They do not want another prolonged negotiation with Germany or more occasions for friction among themselves.

Europe Comes to America
In truth, Europe is coming to America to parley, believing that the present league and treaty is a good basis for international understanding but not necessarily a perfect instrument. Europe is willing to make certain changes. If America wishes to scrap the whole thing and start a fresh Europe will decline to go any further and America will be compelled to adopt a policy of isolation. The prediction is freely made that a middle ground will be found, namely, the modification of the present league of nations but the preservation of the treaty and the framework of the covenant.

Hints for Table Decorations and Costumes for St. Patrick's Day

Two dainty crepe paper frocks for wear at St. Patrick's Day fetes and effective table decoration for the day.

St. Patrick's Day has become a favorite time for entertaining and one of the reasons for this may be the very effective decorations which are all ways to be had at this time. Green and gold make very pretty trimmings and are very appropriate for the spring of the year. Brides, parties, teas, luncheons, showers, birthday celebrations and dances all take advantage of St. Patrick's day to employ unusual decorations and favors.

Many of the dainty novelties can be made at home out of paper and crepe paper. In addition to this, paper may be used to make pretty dancing frocks, masquerade costumes and tableaux costumes for observation of the day. Church entertainments and school or club entertainments will find these crepe paper frocks and costumes very pretty and economical as well.

The two pictured here are made of crepe paper sewed on an old frock or slip for a foundation. Flaps, large and shamrocks are applied on the frocks, forming the trimmings. All of the table decorations may be purchased in sets, and favors and lampshades and such may be bought to match.

It is one to serve a regular luncheon on the entire scheme may be carried out in green. Here is a good menu for a luncheon or dinner:

DELAVAN TO HAVE MORE NEW ROADS

County Decides on 6 Miles of Concrete Near Lake—City to Build $12,000 Incinerator.

Contracts have been let by Walworth county and approved by the state highway commission for several concrete trunk lines near Delavan. Grading work has been started on 2 1/2 miles on the Lake Geneva road, which connects with the Delavan pavement on highway number 50.

This road will run to Inlet bridge near Geneva lake.

There are also four miles of concrete to be built on the Lake Geneva road by Walworth county leading out of Delavan. Walworth county through the board of supervisors voted to discount its road bonds to not more than six per cent to continue the road construction work.

To Build Incinerator.
In the city of Delavan main interest is centered in the construction of a municipal incinerator to cost approximately $12,000. Bids will be opened for this plant within six weeks time. It was announced by Delavan officials Wednesday.

Together with this building Delavan will build a $10,000 storm sewer through the main district of the city and construct a drainage system. The funds for the work are available from the passage of a bond issue of $50,000 a year ago for $20,000 work of sewer work, $10,000 for bridges, $5,000 for the waterworks extension. The sum of $5,000 was set aside for the purchase or building of a municipal hitching stable and sales place for the agriculture interests.

Concrete Streets.
Delavan has built concrete streets, having more than two miles of the type of pavement within the city limits. Some of the pavement was built in 1914 and the rest in 1919. The concrete has met all the tests desired by the city and satisfaction is expressed.

"They have held up good," said City Engineer W. A. Pierce. "The cost for maintenance has been about 1 cent for every 66 feet lot for a year. We have had little trouble with them cracking or expanding."

ERECT FORMS FOR CEMENT FOUNDATION

Forms are being built for the concrete foundation for the new addition to the city water plant, South River street, by the contractors, J. P. Cullen & Son. Pouring of cement will probably begin Monday. A portion of the excavation was done by Supt. H. A. Griffey's men.

The new 4,000 gallon pump will arrive about April 1. Mr. Griffey states.

MODERN GIRL IS DEFENDED AS PRODUCT OF WAR

Chicago.—The extremes adopted by the modern girl should not be judged too harshly, said Mary Ross Potter, dean of women at Northwestern university, Tuesday night at a meeting of ministers' wives.

"There is nothing wrong with the girl of today because she uses a lip stick and a little rouge and a cab of powder," she said. "Of course the dress of the girl of today—skirt to knees almost, flimsy stockings, flimsy everything—is not the dress of mother's generation. Nevertheless she is sweet and good and kind at heart. She has an independence that did not belong to her mother's day, but such is the spirit of the times, it is the result of the war."

Claim Missing Beloit Barber, Was Seen Here

That Phillip E. Kemper, Deloit barber, who disappeared mysteriously last Saturday, was in Janesville that afternoon, is the latest information furnished Chief Charles Qualman in his search for the man. A Beloit woman, Mrs. Louise Wooster, claims she talked to Kemper on a street in Janesville and that he appeared worried, explaining he was on his way to Milwaukee to visit his daughter who, he said, was seriously ill.

It is feared Kemper may have taken his own life. Police are seeking to locate his divorced wife in Chicago.

"I Don't Know How I Ever Did it"

THOUSANDS of women have said these very words after they have put the Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet in their homes.

They can't see how they managed to drag through the day, taking the extra time and needless steps, doing the unnecessary lifting and stooping that is always done by women who try to get along without the Hoosier.

Day after day they are all worn out simply because they have been doing more work and harder work than is necessary.

Once you put the Hoosier in your home your tasks are lightened. You get out of the kitchen earlier. You have more time for rest and recreation. You save yourself miles of steps each day.

Come in and let us show you how much the Hoosier will do for you.

SEVEN TOWNS JOIN
TO ASK RATE CUTDelavan, Clinton and Sharon
Among Those After Lower Electrical Prices.

Protesting the increase granted through the decision of the state railroad commission for increased electrical power rates, cities in Walworth and Jefferson counties have combined in an attempt to readjust the rate schedule of the Southern Wisconsin Electric company, operating from Lake Geneva.

There is to be a hearing before the state commission in Madison on March 23, at which time the various cities interested will present additional evidence and claims.

As a result of the last hearing, the corporation was awarded an increase of $25,000 a year. They petitioned for increases to meet the $2,000 a year, the commission cutting down the claim $7,000 in the decision returned in January.

Among the villages and cities interested in the new action are Clinton, Geneva, Lyon and Delavan. C. J. Sumner, Delavan city attorney, will be one of the leading representatives of the village group, which have petitioned their demand for a lower rate. W. H. Dougherty and Thomas S. Nolan, Janesville attorneys, will represent several of the villages. Others who will appear are J. D. Duggan, W. E. Page, D. T. Powers, I. E. Bjerring, B. D. Frost, F. E. Lawson, F. C. Denmore, A. E. Monroe, A. V. Peters and R. E. Wilcox.

The last rate increase was allowed on January 25, 1921. The attorneys for the cities and villages then advanced the claim that the power company did not report all its revenue to the state commission.

BASSFORD WRITES
FOR STATE MONTHLY

The March number of the Wisconsin Journal of Education contains an article by Principal G. A. Bassford, Janesville, on the "Technique of Supervising Study Periods." It is well known that much of the time usually spent in the so-called recitation periods is wasted as it is merely a rehearsing of that which has already been learned. The modern way of conducting classes is to spend a portion of the period in the reciting, testing, and questioning so as to determine whether or not the pupils have mastered the assignment. The next portion of the class period is given over to the assignment for the work for the next day. After this is done the pupils start studying their assignments for the next day under the supervision of the teacher.

A Sweetheart at Thirty

The Story of a Woman's Transformation
BY MARION RUBINCAM

CHAPTER XXV.
WHAT ESTHER KNEW
"I'd love him more, because he would love me more," Vi said, and therein lies the key-note of her whole character. Vi was the sort who could love a man, not only in spite of his faults, but because of them. The woman who has this trait is to be pitied and envied, too, for though she will be unhappy perhaps more than other women, she will achieve a happiness at other times that her less romantic sister rarely knows.

My mind was so busy with this and other problems that I slept but little that night. And when I awoke I saw with a start that it was 10 o'clock. I looked across the room, but Vi had gone—indeed, she was at her work for at least an hour by this time.

"I got up and got breakfast," Esther said when I appeared in my little room. "It's all ready. I didn't wait."

"That's nice. I'll have a bath and be ready in 10 minutes," I told her. One of my greatest joys in my new life was the breakfast—when I sat idle with the second cup of coffee and the morning paper. Esther, in one of her "house gowns"—flannel in winter, calico in summer—walked about the room examining our candles and pictures, and finally settled down at the table with me. Plainly, Esther did not share my enthusiasm for the morning's news. Finally she went out to the kitchen and got herself some coffee and came back.

"You're not taking your exercises," she accused me.

"Not this morning. I don't want to take the time," I answered. "After I dress, we'll go out and see the city."

"Looks kind of cold," Esther commented, staring through the window.

"But it's gorgeous clear," I said. "And an ideal day to go up to the top of the Woolworth tower. Three sets of elevators, Esther, and you are about 700 feet high. I think. You can see the city, and the country, and the most gorgeous view of the harbor and far out to sea."

"I got dizzy that high," she said.

"Oh, no," I soothed her, and went on, trying to rouse her enthusiasm. "We'll walk down where the high buildings are, and I'll take you on the subway."

"But I'd be afraid of one of them things! Suppose it fell in?"

"But it doesn't," I answered and laughed, though I was beginning to be discouraged by this time. I began to see now that the narrowness for which I had pitied Esther was partly her own fault.

"What was all that Vi said last night about sticking to someone in Engaged Couple in School.

"Dear Miss Page: I want to know what you consider the proper attitude of engaged couples at school. The young man to whom I am engaged is a very nice fellow, and very devoted to me, but he pays so much attention to me that I feel it is embarrassing. He claims that engaged men should have more privileges, and I do not wish to hurt his feelings, but I feel sure that if you would write upon this subject he will take it as being from a good authority, as we often speak well of your advice. — A student in Trouble."

Well first, I must say thank you. I feel myself becoming prejudiced in your favor. For I'm only a woman after all, and factory is very potent. But aside from that, isn't it just a wee bit too bad you couldn't have waited a year or two until you were both through school?

However—

Because school is primarily the place for studying and learning, and not for love-engaged men to the contrary notwithstanding—I think that your fiancé should try to put a brace on his emotions during school hours. Three good reasons—first, because you want him to be second, because he makes you and himself conspicuous, which is not in very good taste, to say the least; and third, because if he really loves you enough to warrant all that devotion, he can show it more honestly and effectively by forgetting work during school hours and doing it in the evening. Perhaps in the light of just how well you are forgetting that to keep you with him he will have to get a job some day, and hold it, and make money! And which means that he owes it to you to study now. Isn't that right, Mr. Man?

My advice to you both—of course you may not like it, but it's good advice just the same—is to set a certain reasonable number of times during the week when you can be together and just plain adore each other, and then the rest of the time, try to be nice, sensible, wholesome, helpful pals, carrying on at your job—which, just now, is study.

People will admire you more, you will respect yourselves and each other more, your work will improve and your future profit, and your love will be sweeter. Because—though you probably won't be able to believe me yet—more than enough of even so beautiful a thing as love soon becomes too much.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

DEAR JOE:

I've been trying to teach my Finnish maid Hilma a few select words of English so when I give her a bawling out it won't all be wasted on the desert air, but the effort just seems to be a wild goose chase. She just looks at me with her mouth open as if I was talking Finnish.

I decided she ought to know at least enough English to be called down in after I'd walked in the kitchen the other night and found her entertaining the policeman. They were just looking at each other without speaking, because Hilma can't speak any more English than a man up a tree and the policeman is too Irish to speak any Finnish.

"Ah," I thought to myself, "the universal language of love!"

It was a pretty thought, Joe, and I went out of the kitchen and left them there to enjoy it, but the next morning when I looked in the ice box and saw several empty plates that had been feasting with things to eat I realized that what they had been conversing in was the universal language of food. But when I tried to explain to Hilma that the policeman probably had a home of his own that was perfectly able to support him she just looked dumfounded as if I was not more so, and when I kept on pointing to the ice box she got a cloth and started to polish it up. Can you imagine that Joe?

Oh well, there's a bright side to everything, and I suppose if we have a policeman actually in the house a good majority of the time, we won't be so liable to feel any effects from this came-mare as we would if he were several blocks away and still going.

The baby is still putting on weight with ease and so am I in spite of all I can do. Lovingly,

TESSIE.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man 23 years of age. I was in the army two years and went through one year of fighting in France. I came back in July, 1919, and met a young lady who I know 19. We have been going together all this time and she is a very good girl, but lately she has changed very much in every way.

She always said she loved me and would marry me. We were engaged last August. Now she has broken our engagement and is going with someone else. I have always bought her everything she wanted. I even bought her a car last summer just to please her and have spent all I had made last year. I care too much for her to do anything that will hurt her feelings.

If I wanted to bring a suit against her for breaking her promise, could I do it? Have I enough evidence to go to court and win?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man and have been going with a girl for more than a year. Last fall I went out of town and when I came back I found that my girl had accepted a dress from another man. Do you think there was any harm in that? I say there was, and she says there was not.

H. H. G.

Your girl should not have accepted the dress. It shows a lack of self-respect and good breeding.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am in love with a young man and he has been engaged for months. He broke it

ORCHARD ORIOLE.

Size—About an inch longer than the sparrow. Plumage—General effect, (male) black and chestnut; (female) grayish olive above and dull yellow below. Head, neck, throat and upper back, black. Breast, belly and lower back, chestnut. Wings and tail, lustrous and more or less tipped with white. FEATHERS—Up-ports, grayish olive green and brighter on head and rump. Wing-coverts, tail, bright olive green. Underparts, dull yellow. TAIL—TURB. Male in first winter, like adult female but with black brown-er. Male in first nuptial plumage like adult female but with throat black and occasional chestnut patches on sides and underparts.

Range—Breeds from North Dakota, Michigan, New York and lower New England south to the Gulf. Winters from Mexico to Colombia.

ORCHARD ORIOLE

Here is a sprit from the tropics. While the Orchard Oriole is not so gaudy in dress as his cousin, the Baltimore Oriole, his song is much sweeter. The early morning carols of Bluebird and Robin are unsurpassed in calling us to be up and awake; the evening whistles of Song Sparrow and Wood Thrush are soul uplifting, while the constant chatter and fussing of Jennie Wren fills in the dull moments of the day; but when late some morning or early afternoon you stroll down to the orchard and as vagrant zephyrs waft apple blossoms gently to earth on Orchard Oriole takes perch high up in the tip top of a tree and sings a song of love, there reigns in your heart the peace that passeth all understanding and all the world is a dream picture of fairy texture, such is the sweetness of the song.

Never a bit of harm to the ripening fruit can be traced to the Orioles, while the protection they give the budding trees by seeking out larvae and harmful insects is incalculable. In each or apple orchard, it is well to look for their fairy penile nests, which made of grasses that soon wither and take on a color of such low visibility that they are very, very hard to locate.

After hearing the unsurpassed sweetness of Mr. Oriole's love song and viewing the beautiful home that Mr. Oriole weaves for its precious cargo of eggs and nestlings, it comes as a shock some day to come upon them in the course of a family jar when they will be found splitting at each other in hot spite, all the time emitting a series of hoarse cackles in approved grackle fashion, thus showing conclusively that despite their sweet song and beautiful plumage, they are only blackbirds after all.

Sweet Potatoes With Apples—Cook sweet potatoes in jackets until well done. Peel and cut in slices about one inch thick. Put a layer of potatoes in buttered bake dish, cover with thick slices of good tart apples. Dot with generous bits of butter and quite a little sugar. Use about three layers—leaving apples on top.

Pour over all a scant cup of hot water and bake for 30 minutes. Oranges may be used in place of apples with equally good results. This recipe once tried will be a family favorite.

Prizes for Gazette Readers in Bird Color Contest

Can you paint? Have you learned colors? Here is a chance for every child in the schools of Southern Wisconsin to learn and earn. For some weeks The Gazette has been printing the most interesting series of bird descriptions ever written for a newspaper. Have you been reading "Useful Bird Citizens?" If you have and have looked over the pictures and the color descriptions you have a considerable knowledge already of bird life.

One of the reasons for The Gazette printing these articles about the birds is that the growing generation should be informed about these friends and the grown-up people ought to know more about the real uses and value of birds.

The Gazette wants more interest in this series and to find out how closely you are reading the stories about these American birds.

For the best ten colored pictures of the prints of the birds out from The Gazette we will give $10 in prizes.

Here are the rules of the contest:

Opens March 15, 1921.
Closes May 1, 1921.
Open to all children 12 years of age or under in Southern Wisconsin.

Nearly every day a picture with a description of a bird and directions about color appears in The Gazette on the woman's page. You can cut out one of these pictures as they have appeared or as you see them from day to day right up to the time of the closing of the contest. But the pictures must be cut from The Gazette bird articles. Paste the picture on a card 3 by 5 inches. Paint as directed in the description, give the name of the bird and the date when printed in The Gazette. Mail the ten pictures to the Bird Contest, Editor, Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

These are the prizes to be given:

First prize, $5.
Second prize, $3.
Third prize, a book of colored plates of birds.
Fourth prize, $1, and fifth, $1.
Address all letters and prize pictures to Bird Color Contest, Editor, Janesville Daily Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

Your friends use it—you don't know it.

New Spring Fashions

Andelson Bros

The House of Courtesy

The most gladsome season of all the year is here again—the time of all times when every well dressed woman is anxious to don new and interesting clothes. And in its wake comes a bevy of new wearables, which proves that when it is a matter of Spring Apparel the utmost confidence may be placed in our displays. Assembled here in infinite variety are the most approved styles—garments whose vogue is pronounced and permanent. The prices are very reasonable; just about one-half of what they were at this time last year.

Grace and Youthfulness is Expressed in the New Suits

Though there is considerable diversity as to fabrics, line and ornamentation, every Suit in this all-inclusive showing boasts some individual claim to distinction. Convertible collars; novel collar treatments; flaring-cuffed three-quarter sleeves; sleeves set in enlarged armholes; box and ripple jackets and circular skirts are some of the outstanding features.

Spring Frocks Evince a Fondness for Crepe Silks

And that it is by no means an ungrounded affection is proved by the gracious manner in which crepe de Chines, crepe meteors and Canton crepes yield to the dropped waistlines, sashes, havem panel skirts and three-quarter sleeves which distinguish the most fashionable of this season's modes. One may choose these frocks in black and navy blue, with beaded motifs or rich embroidery as trimming.

In Spring Smaller Fur Pieces Have Right of Way

This is quite as it should be. Discriminating women reluctant to deny themselves the final touch of charm that furs give a costume, will find these chokers, scarfs, shoulder capes and coatees comfortable this mild Spring weather when larger garments would prove almost burdensome. Choice is offered of a wide range of pelts including squirrel, mole and mink.

Coats and Capes Share Honors

But in mentioning them we must not overlook the Wraps for they are neither Coats nor Capes but rather happy combinations of both. All three types of outer garments are devised from soft woolsens, but how very different and smart each is! The Coats, swinging out from snug shoulders, in an uninterrupted line, flare gracefully at the hem. Many of the Capes also favor straight lines and like the majority of the Wraps and Coats are artistically embroidered.

OUR BIG EASTER DISPLAY OF MILLINERY

Resplendent with elegance, distinctiveness and beauty is now awaiting your consideration. It surpasses any collection of models and pattern hats that we have ever assembled in its wide scope of novel conceits.

Lovely shades of shell, copper, nasturtium, jade and French blues are shown in combinations, rarely excelled for harmony and restfulness of tone.

Ultra smartness in shapes and trimmings—all prevailing styles of the moment.

BLOUSES

Don't fail to see the new Blouses when you attend our Spring Exposition for a more dazzling array of models than this is seldom shown. Most of them are exquisitely embroidered or glistening with bead decorations.

SKIRTS

Almost any silhouette one might desire is obtainable in the Skirts. Every imaginable kind of pleat is employed, but there are a number of chic plain models, too. Choice is offered of silk or woolsens.

"Don't you think it possible that you rescued her out of a job?"

The young man nodded his head. "After all, her trouble getting on her feet was her own fault. I'm a sure enough foolhead."

"You've been down to find out?" she asked with a sidelong tilt of her quick eyes.

"I went down this mornin' with Tim Muldoon. He's a policeman I met down there. Miss Kitty hasn't been seen since that night. We went out to the Purple's. Dave, the Purple's Grace Godwin's Garret, and all the places where she used to sell cigarettes. None of them have seen anything of her. I really got my championship hasn't been so great a help to her after all, has it?"

"No."

"And I suppose it ruined the business of the man that owns the Sea Siren?"

"I don't reckon so. I've settled for the furniture. And the Sea Siren when it gets going again, it will do a big business on account of the fracas. It's Kitty I'm worried about."

"She's a kind of cuddly little girl who needs the protection of some man, you say?"

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a yellow complexion—dark rings look in your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, known in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of poisons.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, known by their olive color. 50c and 25c.

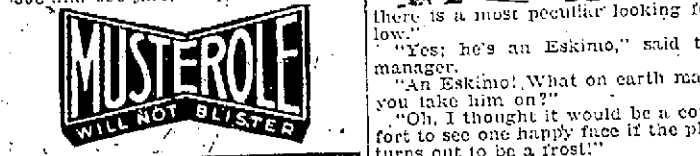

A RAW, SORE THROAT

Eases Quickly When You Apply a Little Musterole.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. It is fine for quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds on the chest. When Food Doesn't Digest

Give the Stomach a "National Rest" by Proper Aid, Not by Harsh Starvation Methods. Use Smart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

A sour stomach may indicate an acid condition that calls for an alkaline effect.

This you will get from one or two

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after a meal. Sour risings, gasiness, a heavy bloated feeling and such distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia are usually only temporary. And yet they may lead to serious disorder. The regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals reflects to a high degree the intelligent selection of preventative measures.

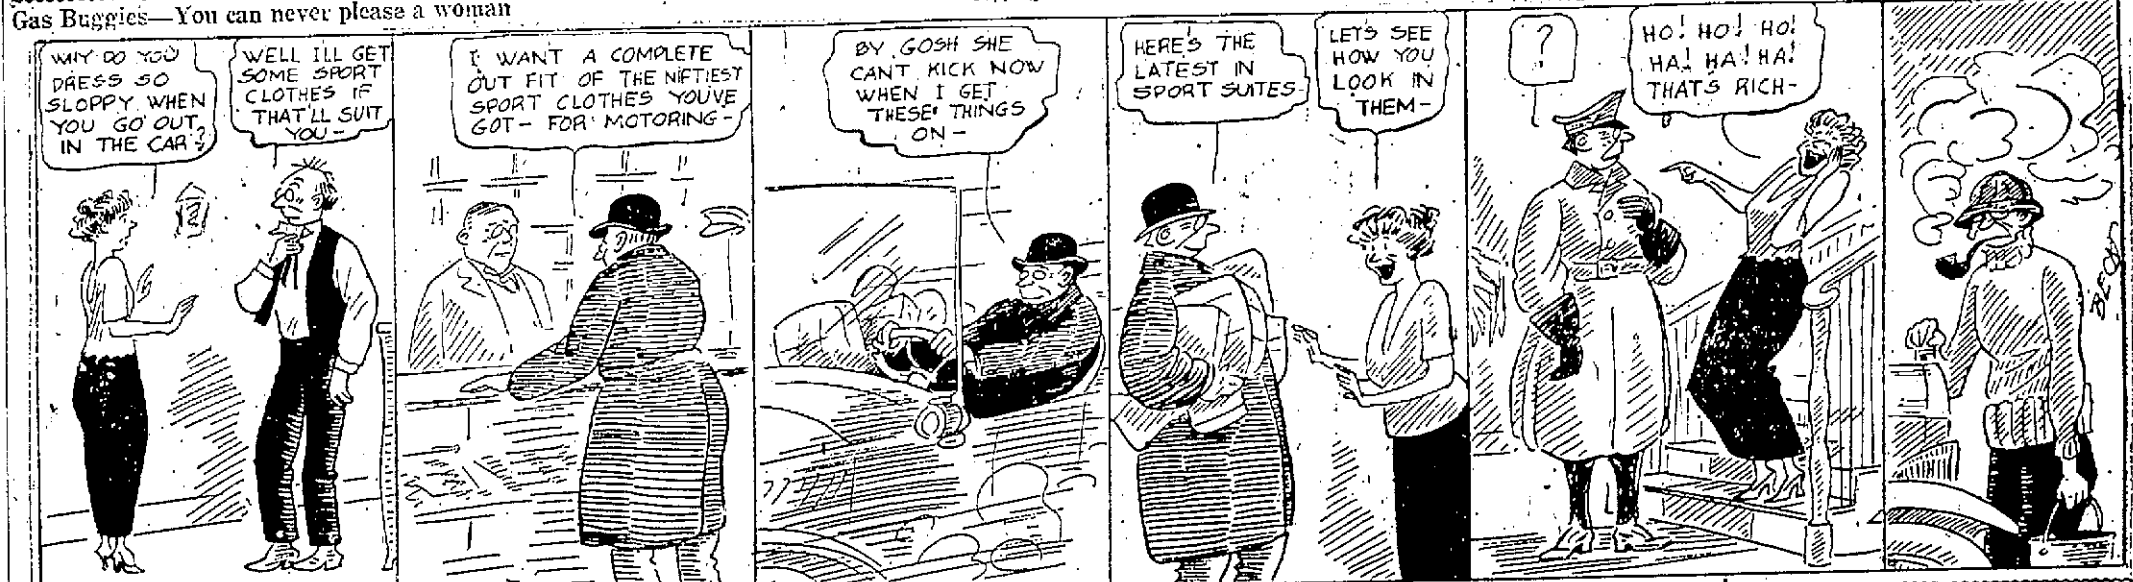

One cannot always select, or inspect the quality of food to be eaten nor its method or manner of preparation. But it is possible to avoid the acidity that is so often the result. And it is a far better plan to eat without worry over what may happen, than to starve for fear it will happen. Many physicians recommend these tablets for stomach distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia.

They are sold by all druggists everywhere at 60 cents a box.

PHONOGRAPH RECORD

MAKE MACHINE TALK

(A "Why" Article)

"What makes a phonograph talk?"

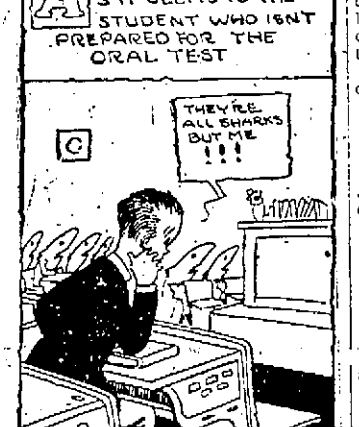

"Sounds," the scientists tell us, are all waves caused by vibrations. When a tin can falls to the floor it vibrates and causes air waves which travel through the air to the ear. When you drop it into a pond, ripples the water.

That is why a phonograph talks. A phonograph is an instrument which reproduces vibrations that have been registered on a wax form called a record. These records are made by having someone play or sing into the horn of a phonograph. The sound waves which are running over a soft wax plate.

The sound waves caused by the vibrations of the vocal chords in the throat of the person singing beat upon the drum in the phonograph. It vibrates in unison, and the needle, which is attached to this drum, makes tiny dents or nicks in the soft wax.

Later this wax is hardened and thus the impressions of the sound vibrations of the vocal chords in the produce the vibrations by running a needle over the wax. Billy Whiskers

Affairs at Cloverleaf Farm had been running very smoothly for a month or more. School had begun, the boys were occupying their studies, and so well out of mischief's way for five hours each day. Summer crops had been harvested, the barn was bursting with the sweet-scented hay, the well-filled silo promised many a juicy meal for the farmyard inhabitants during the approaching winter months, and in the fields the pumpkins lay like huge nuggets of pure gold, with the shocks of corn standing guard over their richness.

Billy Whiskers, as you remember, had returned from his long travels with the circus, the troupe of monkeys had come and gone, and the keys had come and gone, and the barn was left in comparative quiet.

Yet under the outward calm there was a vague uneasiness, and a strange restlessness was apparent among the boys, which at times infected even the older members of the Treat household. All this was proven conclusively because Billy Whiskers and his gaily-painted cat were noticed at the back of the barn, and much more interest than outdoor sports for the last week or more.

But such a condition of things could not last very long. One afternoon when the sun was casting

A SAFE TEST

For those who are in need of a remedy for kidney troubles and backache, it is a good plan to try Doan's Kidney Pills. They are strongly recommended by Janesville people.

Mrs. I. W. Wheelock, 255 River St., Janesville, says: "Five years ago I was in very bad shape with kidney complaint. I had been painting the woodwork of my home with the doors closed and the fumes from the turpentine were so strong, my kidneys became disordered. My kidneys were inactive and this caused me no end of annoyance. My back pained and I had severe headaches. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, as she had used them with benefit, so I got several boxes of the Badger Drug Co., and took them until every symptom of kidney trouble left me entirely. I gladly endorse this remedy."

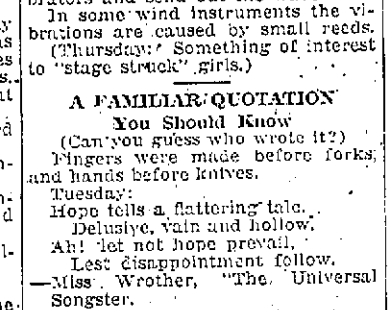

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wheelock had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

1322, that Dr. Samuel F. Smith, turning over the pages of a German book on words, came across the English word "God Save the King." He liked the word.

Half an hour later he produced the words of the national hymn of the United States, "America," or, as some call it, "My Country, 'Tis Thee." Then he liked the melody of "God Save the King."

Dr. Smith was born in Boston, 1808, and was a theological student. It was in his home town, in the old Park Street Church, that he first heard the words of the hymn.

The words of the great song were written on a scrap of paper, the composer picked up from the table, which he was sitting when he first thought to write them. They are substantially the same today as when he first jotted them down. Never was "America" recognized

THE RHEUMATISM

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.

In the year of 1893 I was attacked by Rheumatism and Sub-Acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are thus afflicted know for over a year. I tried every remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally I found a treatment that cured me completely and such a painful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number of my friends who were terribly afflicted, even bedridden, some of them seventy to eighty years old, and the results were the same as mine.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular and sub-acute rheumatism, to try the great value of my "Penny Race" Tablets. I tried it after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Mandell Favorite Over Hagen in Elks' First Fight Show

Copyright 1920 by Geo. McManus.

FAST CARD MARKS FIRST BOUTS HERE IN THREE YEARS

When $15 rolls around Wednesday night and the curtain falls, Janesville will have witnessed the paths of the pink tie table for the first time in three years. After a lapse of three long years, the main art of self defense, Jack, brought here by the local Elks' lodge to stay. Twenty-eight rounds of fighting are on a card, which, as a starter, is an eye opener.

A packed house at the 3-ers theater is due to witness a battle that experts predict will be a sensation when Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill., comes with Johnny Hagen of Chicago in the 10-round window. Beloit and Rockford are sending special interurbans up to witness the clash, while Madison, Evansville and other surrounding cities have taken road-sized busses to the show.

The Entire Handout. Here is the full card:

WIND-UP—Sammy Mandell vs. Johnny Hagen, 10 rounds; heavyweight.

SEMI-FINAL—Capt. Walter Rookes, El Paso, Ill., vs. Jack Reagan, Rockford, 8 rounds; middleweight.

SECOND PRELIMINARY—Roy Meyers, Janesville, vs. Frankie Miller, Chicago, 6 rounds; welterweight.

CURTAIN ROLLER—Eddie Clarke, Janesville, vs. Jeff Williams, Beloit, paperweights.

Butler Welch in. Interest in the fights is not confined to this city. It has spread far and wide. The fact that Walter Houghen has agreed to be the third man in the ring shows the quality. The tickets have gone fast. The Elks report only a few remaining and these are expected to sell like water just before the doors open unless the fans buy them at the various agencies Wednesday.

All of the fighters made their respective weights at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The weighing in took place at the Hotel London in the presence of an interested group of Elks' followers.

Hagen and Rookes arrived from Chicago Wednesday. Both completed their training in the city. Hagen is a boxing stationer from the Wisconsin boxing commission. Hagen is ready to go and Rookes looks as if Reagan will have to go some to avoid that punch which he is credited with.

The Elks' hall has been the scene of the wildest of most of the other boxers. "Smiling Sammy" has been the center of interest and the topic of conversation.

Racine Bowler Fifth in A.B.C.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Eighteen New York state teams, selected by the A. B. C. tournament Wednesday night. Nine Detroit teams are scheduled to roll in the second shift of this event.

Canadian bowlers competing in the second five-man squares Tuesday night failed to finish among the leaders. The Plumings, of Cleveland, hold the high score with 2,961.

Dwelling in the doubles and singles brought several changes in the leaders, two teams rolling 1,220 sets for high scores in the doubles, causing a triple tie for eighth place, while three high sets by Horst Lindley of New Haven, S. Hydecker of Racine, and S. Gresh of Cleveland, in the singles, placed them fourth, fifth and sixth respectively.

BRINGING UP FATHER

PERRING RETAINED TO GUIDE TRACTOR TEAM DURING 1921

George Perring, manager of the Samsen Tractor baseball team under General Motors supervision, was Tuesday night retained as manager of the club under the new directorship of the Tractor City Athletic Association of Janesville. The choice was unanimous.

Called in to the meeting, which was held at the Hotel Myers, Perring was informed of the decision and given full authority to go ahead and make arrangements for the coming season. He declared that all of the players on the team have given assurances that they will remain here.

The action of the association received the hearty approval of the ballplayers who waited in the lobby of the hotel, while the officers and directors of the newly organized city club were in session. They seconded what Perring had declared in the meeting as to their remaining here.

It was decided at the meeting to solicit $5 memberships from the fans of the town. Further announcements will be made later as to when this will start.

Congratulations, City. From Cleveland, Ohio, praise of Janesville's action in working to keep the team has been received. The manager of the Stroud Avine company of that city, in writing in regard to scheduling his team here declares:

"It pays to advertise. I wonder if the citizens of Janesville know that their decision to take over the baseball team is known all over the country. Baseball more than anything else in my humble opinion will put a town on the map."

"Even if you find it is financially impossible to invite us to Janesville, please accept my heartiest wishes to your future success."

Those present at the meeting were: President, William Langdon; vice-president, Del Harder; treasurer, Roger Cunningham; secretary, Frank Weich; chairman, J. P. Little; John Kennedy; Louis Levy; and Harold Schwartz.

Baseball War on, Nash vs. Simmons

Kenosha is having a little baseball war at its own, according to reports issued out of that northern city. Walter Miller, manager of the Nash baseball club, representing the Nash division, openly charges Theodore Nelson, manager of the team of the Simmons baseball club, with "unsportsmanlike tactics." The particular charge is that the Simmons organization worked to exclude the Nash outfit from the newly formed Chicago district league in that the only dissenting vote against admitting Nash was made by Simmons. It is pointed out that this was sufficient to keep the other Kenosha team out.

The result will be scheduling of games at Kenosha without regard to co-operation between the teams, is said. The Nash team has openly declared that it will seek to outdo Simmons in every respect.

Brierty Scores K. O. Josie Prox Wins

Jimmy Brierty, Janesville, acting as a last minute substitute for "Kid" Buchanan, knocked out "Josie" Prox in the second round of a scheduled four round fight. Although he weighed only 145 pounds to Buchanan's 155, Brierty distinctly outclassed his opponent.

Prox, also of this city, shaded Joe Poye on the same card, winning the first two rounds and fighting the last two to a draw. Prox almost lost in making the time for weighing out by becoming stalled on the road near Oregon.

In the window of the fight, Gene Gannon, outpointed Walter Graylock in a fast eight bout.

MORE and more every day the demand for the Fordson Tractor increases because the Fordson has demonstrated so much usefulness, so much economy, so much labor saving, so much money saving, along so many lines of activity. The farmer has discovered that not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, seeding, mowing, reaping and threshing, but a multitude of other uses; cutting wood; feed; grinding feed; churning; washing; furnishing water in the house; making electric light possible in the house and around the barns; so that, as a matter of fact, there is hardly an hour in the day when the Tractor cannot be made a profitable servant. There is ditching, to do; there are roads to fix; and so on all down along the line of the numerous calls that constantly face the farmer the Fordson steps in and does the work, shoulders the complete burden of the toil and the hard work, one might almost say "drudgery."

This is the Age of Machinery, the day when man plans the day's work, or the year's work, and then turns it over to the Tractor to execute. Get the book, "The Fordson at Work," because it is free. If you cannot call for it, write and we will mail it to you. The Tractor is not only a necessity to every farmer but is an established utility along a great many commercial lines. Our allotment is limited to so many each month. Let's have your order now.
